COAST GUARD
BEGAN DRIVE
ON RUM FLEETTwenty-one Fast Boats
Sailed Today to Foil Runners

By Associated Press Leased Wire

New York, May 5.—Twenty-one boats of the United States Coast Guard steamed out of the base at Clifton Bay, Staten Island, this morning, bound for rum run to open an offensive which will seek to sweep the liquor armada off the Atlantic seaboard by June 1.

Six of the dry navy's speediest cutters led the force, the Seneca, Red Wing, Gresham, Yamacraw, Manhattan and Acushnet. Behind them were fifteen smaller craft, converted submarine chasers and patrol boats, all liberally sprinkled with guns and most of them capable of high speed.

Secrecy marked the departure. It was not known what steps were to be taken in the war of extermination, although Captain W. V. E. Jacobs, in charge of the coast guard for the New York district, announced yesterday that "the time has come" for stricter measures against the rum fleets off the coast, at various points from Connecticut to south New Jersey. Captain Jacobs said, however, that he had neither received nor given orders to his men to "shoot to kill."

For Constant Watch.

It was understood that one of the plans would be to post one or more boats of the augmented fleet to watch every ship on rum run every hour, thus making it impossible for shore boats to take off cargoes or bring out provisions and water.

Captain Jacobs announced yesterday that more than fifty craft ultimately would be engaged in the blockade.

A general shakedown among the 300 coast guardsmen attached to base No. 2, at Clifton Bay, preceded the opening of the big offensive, it was learned today. Captain J. L. Bryan, in charge of the base, admitted that, in addition to the arrest of nineteen guardsmen on various charges, virtually every member of the contingent had been transferred. All seamen, except the boatswains, had been transferred to some other boat. No two men of any old crew were permitted to serve in the same crew under the reorganization.

Of the nineteen men recently arrested, fifteen are said to still be in prison, awaiting naval court martial. Three others were said to have undergone court martial yesterday. The commanding officer refused to discuss the charges.

ADMINISTRATION
HOPEFUL LONDON
SPEECH HELPFULDesirous That Europe
Know How America
Stands on War

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, May 5.—While Ambassador Houghton spoke on his own responsibility in his address in London last night at the Pilgrim's dinner, President Coolidge is very hopeful that the ambassador's interpretation of the American attitude toward Europe will be helpful to European statesmen and peoples.

The President feels that the economic situation in Europe is improving. The return of Europe to a gold basis and the probable early similar action in Holland are construed as favorable signs pointing toward stabilization and recuperation on the other side of the Atlantic.

This favorable outlook is regarded by the President as important in considering loans by American bankers to European industries or governments. He realizes, however, that American financiers must consider the situation in each country in relation to that country's economic policies, and use discretion in determining where their assistance is to be made possible in practicable ways.

Private American loans abroad, the President believes, would be helpful to some countries in restoring financial stability and correcting exchange questions while in other countries such loans would be of doubtful value. In the light of Ambassador Houghton's remark in London it is obvious that the administration here does not intend to approve loans that might be used to bolster up military preparations by any European country.

The marking of the down town section in compliance with the parking ordinance was started this morning. Very little change is being made over the former markings, although it may be necessary to park cars parallel on certain of the streets to care for traffic.

Boy Scout Executive officer who has taken up his duties in Dixon as the officer in charge of the organization of Lee and Ogle counties into a Scout district.

SCOUT EXECUTIVE
FOR TWO COUNTIES
TAKES UP LABORSJ. C. Brown Here for Director of Work in Lee and Ogle

Lee and Ogle counties have been joined into a district which is about to be organized for several Boy Scout troops and while there has been a great deal of preliminary work completed, there still remains much to be done before the organization is complete. One of the most important steps taken is the securing of a Scout Executive for the two counties. J. C. Brown arrived in the city yesterday and took up his duties in this department and is paying the way for the completion of the organization of the two counties at as early a date as possible.

Mr. Brown's record as a Scout includes the following: troop commissioner, scout master, scout commissioner, scout executive for three years, camp director of the Sandusky, Ohio, Council's scout camps for five years. He is a married man with two sons, one of them is an Eagle Scout, the highest rank to be obtained in Scouting and the other boy is a Star Scout. Mrs. Brown's home was formerly at Galena. Mrs. Brown with her two sons will come to Dixon at the close of school year to make their home.

Fraternally the new scout executive is Past Exalted Ruler in the B. P. O. Elks, is a member of the Masonic blue lodge, Sandusky chapter, R. A. M. Sandusky Council, R. & S. M. Erie Commandery, K. T.

To Organize Wednesday.

The organization of a Scout area council will be completed Wednesday, consisting of a president, two vice presidents, a treasurer and other standing committees, namely: leadership, training, organization, finance, camping, civic service, publicity, reading and court of honor. The chairman of each of these committees becomes a member of the executive board. The scout commissioner, vice presidents, treasurer are also members of the executive committee, one of which will be organized in each of the counties.

The Boy Scout movement in Dixon, Lee and Ogle counties has been active in a small way for some years, but during the winter, business men became interested in the program and experts were brought into the locality to explain more fully the plan for a more thorough organization. This plan met with the instant approval of the men interested and funds have been subscribed starting the work which promises to expand rapidly both in Lee and Ogle counties.

Frustrate Attempts at Great Jail Delivery

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, May 5.—Five prisoners in the House of Correction who had plotted a delivery of 75 prisoners who were discovered last night were in solitary confinement today. Bars in the cells of two prisoners had been sawed and a cleverly carved wooden revolver was found in one of the cells.

Authorities at the house of correction said no action probably could be taken against the plotters, since the escape was frustrated, but that at least two of them could be turned over to authorities of other cities where they are wanted.

REVOKED BY COURT AFTER
HEARING HEREImproper Use of Liquor
Prescriptions Held
Substantiated

In a hearing before representatives of the federal prohibition office at Chicago, the licenses of 23 physicians and druggists of Lee and Ogle counties were officially revoked today. The revocation proceedings are being conducted before Elbert H. Lloyd, presiding officer and counsel to the federal prohibition director of Chicago. E. D. Slyder, attorney for the department, Mrs. Evelyn Teninga, official reporter and federal prohibition agents, Joe Prendergast of Rock Island and H. Smith of Chicago.

Druggists and physicians from various towns and villages of Lee and Ogle county were present at the hearing in the supervisors room at the court house yesterday afternoon and today and others were scheduled to appear tomorrow. The hearing is said to have been the result of an investigation conducted by the federal prohibition department offices at Chicago recently.

Surrendered Book.

The revocation of federal permits whereby physicians have been privileged to issue prescriptions for liquor and druggists to fill the prescriptions were revoked, the charge being that the prescriptions had not been issued in good faith. At this morning's session, the defendants were permitted to voluntarily surrender their prescription books, all complying.

Some of those cited before the investigating body at Dixon have been called to appear before the Illinois department prohibition enforcement officer at Chicago. It was hinted at this morning's session, Presiding officer Elbert H. Lloyd of Chicago stated, following the hearing, that no penalties had been administered by this body, and that this part of the procedure, should there be any, will be handled directly from the state department headquarters in Chicago.

WOMEN'S EIGHT
HOUR WORK DAY
BILL DEFEATEDFailed of Passage by One Vote; Author
in Last Move

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Springfield, May 5.—Advocates of the women's eight hour work day bill failed to pass the measure in the house today.

The unofficial vote was 76-57, one short of the required 77. Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill of Downers Grove who introduced the measure prevented final defeat however, by changing her vote from "aye" to "no" and giving notice she would call for reconsideration tomorrow.

West Win Victory

Wets in the house of representatives won a tactical victory today when the O'Grady bill for a referendum to repeal the state search and seizure law was sent to third reading without amendment. A final vote on the measure is expected next week.

Rep. Howard Castle of Harrington and Rep. M. P. Tice, of Lawton lost an attempt to defeat the bill by offering an amendment to strike out the enacting clause. They got into an argument concerning the form of the amendment and the bill was sent to third reading before they could decide.

Rep. Browne offered a bill today providing that salaries of the three judges of the State Court of Claims shall be increased from $15,000 to $25,000 a year.

FORMER PASTOR OF
ST. PAUL'S CHURCH
DIED MONDAY NIGHTInjuries to Dr. Waltz in February Proved
Fatal Last Eve.

An Associated Press dispatch from Louisville, Ky., to The Telegraph this morning announced the death in that city last night of Rev. S. S. Waltz, D. D., former pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church of this city, and for many years a prominent leader in the work of the Rock River Assembly here and the Lutheran Brotherhood, of which he was National Executive Secretary at the time of his death.

The death of the prominent clergyman, who had many friends in Dixon, who will mourn his passing, was the result of injuries sustained Feb. 7, when he was struck by a street car in Chicago. He was born in New Philadelphia, Ohio, in 1847, and in addition to that in Dixon, he held pastorates in Kansas City, Mo., and Louisville, Ky.

Here From 1874 to 1879

He was pastor of the St. Paul's church in this city from August 23, 1874 until Feb. 15, 1879. Three Synodical gatherings were entertained during his pastorate—the first a Sunday School convention held by the Synod Dec. 7, 8 and 9, 1875, the second the twenty-eighth annual convention of the Northern Illinois Synod, Sept. 12, 1878, and the third, the first session of the Woman's Missionary Society, the organization of which had been proposed at the Synod of 1875.

Rev. Waltz was married after coming to Dixon and the present pastorate of the church was built during his pastorate, being planned after the home on the north side in which he had lived. In the fall of 1874, during his term in Dixon, the oil lamp in use in the church was replaced with gas lights, the old lamps being donated to the Carthage congregation. The old benches in the Sunday school room were also replaced with chairs.

He was a man of wonderful personality and ability and during his work here the church and Sunday school enjoyed remarkable growth. Since leaving the Dixon pastorate he had returned at many times to deliver addresses.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Gary, Ind., May 5.—Burial of the burned and maimed body of a girl found more than a week ago near here and identified as Mrs. Josephine Desiderio, confined police efforts to solve the mystery of her death to the search for her husband, Luis.

Authorities abandoned plans to keep the body for several more days after Mr. and Mrs. Bernardo Genero, her parents, claimed it last night when identification was believed clinched. The parents at once arranged for the burial today.

Search for Luis Desiderio, the police said, was based chiefly on the testimony of Mrs. Florence Boto Kish, her chum, who added her recognition of the body to that of the parents and Sam Ross, who claimed acquaintance with the girl. Miss Kish told the police that on the night before Mrs. Desiderio was killed her husband quarreled with her and threatened to kill her.

Desiderio is under $10,000 bond for an alleged attempt to shoot his wife six weeks ago.

TOWN GUARDS
FOR LEE CO.
NOW PLANNEDBankers and Business
Men Invited to Big Meeting Here

Illinois bankers are engaged in a duel to the death with bank robbers and the effect of a momentous campaign, now being conducted in every quarter of the state will be brought home when the Lee County Bankers Federation has a meeting at the Court House Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

With a large section of Illinois already organized, virtually on a war footing, the federation here will perfect its plans at once and within a short space of time will be functioning as one of the most forceful protective groups among the 102 counties of the state.

When the organizers from the Illinois Bankers Association arrive here, this, in substance, is what may be expected to take place:

Every Banker Invited.

Every banker in the county has been invited to attend the organization meeting as well as the sheriff, members of the board of supervisors, the state's attorney and the local peace officers. The chairman of the county federation is the presiding officer, being aided in the conduct of the meeting by the secretary of the federation and the protective chairman.

The Chicago party, conducting the campaign will be composed of from two to five officials, among them R. C. Saunders, former chief of police at Des Moines and a state agent under former Governor Harding of Iowa. It was he who was field organizer for Iowa in the vigorous campaign to put the bank robbers out of business in that state and he will explain the workings of the plan in the neighboring state besides helping the county federation to form a permanent protective society here and in the other towns in the county. The bankers of the county welcome business men and others to the meeting as the subject is of general interest.

The sheriff is the principal functionary in the town-guard system, created with the principal aim of combating bank bandits but it is obvious that that organization will serve the purpose of giving general protection to the entire community in which it serves. For instance, should there be a case of thievery or attempted robbery or vandalism in any other line of business, or an attack on the homes of private individuals, the peace organization as formed under the supervision of the sheriff will be able to give almost instant aid in giving battle to the aggressors.

How Guards Are Picked.

The town-guards are chosen from a list of a dozen or more of the most likely citizens in each locality. Three to a half dozen of these will be selected. Each is to be deputized by the sheriff and will be furnished a revolver of heavy calibre; each organization has at least two Krag Carbine rifles, approved by the government, and membership in the National Rifle Association will increase the expertness of the community town-guards.

Every bank is to be supplied with a large red card, easily discernible by crooks who may visit the neighborhood, and which states specifically that $1,000 will be paid for the capture or taking of any robber or robbers, burglar or burglars, dead or alive.

In the county meeting here Thursday, samples of these guns, revolvers, cards or reward and the like will be displayed for inspection by the members. Numerous incidents of how criminals have been sent to the penitentiaries for life or who have been killed outright while being caught in their separate operations will be told by Mr. Saunders.

Every county visited in the campaign, thus far, has placed itself behind the town-guard plan by 100 per cent. The bankers and the county officials, particularly the sheriff have gone on record unequivocally in favor of such an organization and in some counties it has been almost impossible for the campaign officials to so arrange their time that they might be in the next town on time for the succeeding meeting.

Inclement weather has meant nothing to bankers and county officials in the last few weeks of campaigning. The old saying, that a banker is a hard man to get out to a meeting unless he sees personal gain, has been disproved time and again.

The campaign officials co-operate with the officials in each county bankers federation and do not assume to direct the work of forming the organization. Conditions, peculiar to the county in which the campaign is being presented, always govern the formation of the protective system.

Mrs. M. D. Burroughs returned home from Los Angeles, Cal., where she has been spending several weeks visiting with relatives and friends.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—
Use Steel Wool.
Steel wool moistened with linseed oil is excellent for keeping an iron sink smooth and clean.

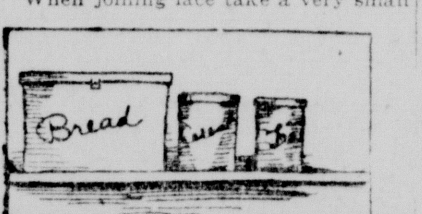

In Cedar Bags.
Pack away your winter clothes in paper bags that have been treated with cedar. Those that open at the side are more accessible and easier to use than those opening at the top.

To Clean Copper.
Rottenstone and oil is the best possible cleaner for copper. Then polish with a flannel cloth or a chamois.

Keeping Groceries.
All dry groceries and cereals should be kept in glass, pottery or metal containers and be kept in a cool dry place.

Brighter Rubbers.
Clean up dingy looking overshoes by washing with ammonia water and then giving a coat of liquid shoe dressing.

In Joining Lace.
When joining lace take a very small seam, then buttonhole bair over the edges the depth of the seam. It is less bulky than the French seam.

Menus for a Family

Tested by C. SISTER MARY

Breakfast:
Shredded fresh pineapple, poached eggs on graham toast, rice waffles, maple sirup, milk, coffee.

Luncheon:
Baked lima beans, lettuce sandwiches, sponge cake pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner:
Broiled herring, horseradish butter, scalloped potatoes, buttered spinach, rhubarb and strawberry pie, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

Rhubarb and Strawberry Pie.
Two cups rhubarb, 1 cup diced strawberries, 3/4 cup sugar, 1/2 cup fine dried crumbs, 1 tablespoon flour.

The rhubarb should be put into one-inch pieces before measuring. Line a deep pie plate with a plain paste. Sprinkle evenly over the crust two tablespoons sugar and the flour well mixed. Add one cup rhubarb and one-half cup strawberries. Mix remaining sugar and bread crumbs and sprinkle half of it over the layer of fruit. Add remaining fruit and sprinkle with remaining sugar and crumbs. Cover with top crust and bake from 30 to 40 minutes in a moderate oven.

Be sure the upper crust is pressed firmly over the lower one to prevent the escape of juice. Moisten the under edge well before fitting over the top.

An indigestible but "nummy" dessert is made if this pie is served with whipped cream. However, if the main part of the meal is planned to be lacking in fat calories a rich dessert of this sort can be served very comfortably.

CYNTHIA GREY SAYS: THE OGRE OF FEAR—

Fear is a terrible thing. A child never knows fear until it is taught to be afraid.

And one of the most cruel and senseless things that well-intentioned parents do is to teach their offspring to be afraid.

"Take care, you'll fall!" a mother will say to her young son who is running around after the fashion of a sure-footed mountain goat.

It would be better for the child to have a bump or two than to acquire the habit of mind that makes him constantly on the look-out for some hurt or other.

Then there is the fear of the dark. Almost all children have it. The ogre in the fairy tale book is hidden in the corner of the room, they imagine, . . . or perhaps Bluebeard himself! . . . Children shouldn't know about such dreadful fignments of the Grimm Brothers' imagination.

The mother who sits down in the dark sleeping room, and quies her child's mind by a cheerful lullaby or a happy sort of story is giving him strong nerves for his grown up years later on. And there will be no nightmares to fill his baby dreams with horror!

Then there is the "daddy" bugbear. "I'll tell your daddy when he comes home, and he can punish you!" How often we've heard mothers say this!

I wonder if they realize what an effect this has on a child's mind. . . . to keep it in fear of daddy's homecoming all day long. I'm sure if they stopped to think they'd never do it.

They'd try to keep their children's mind free from fear, . . . which, when you look at it clearly, is a kind of moral disease.

Children's Party Was Great Success

On Saturday evening the children of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs were entertained at a May party at I. O. O. F. hall, about 100 being in attendance and all reporting a most delightful time. The hall was prettily decorated in the spring colors, and flowers.

The older children enjoyed dancing and the younger ones had a May pole which proved an enjoyable feature of the evening. The Grand March was held at 9:30 and then refreshments were served at about 9:30. So the younger children might go home at an early hour. The Grand March, which made a most attractive scene was led by Miss Lois Stephan and Gerald Sproul.

It is reported as one of the most enjoyable and successful parties ever given for the younger folks and will probably prove an annual affair hereafter.

SHE READS THE ADS.

On Friday a Dixon merchant ran an advertisement in the Evening Telegraph which carried, among other items, an announcement of a certain style of tennis shoe, with an illustration and description and price of the shoe.

One Dixon home into which the paper went that evening is a little girl, a first grade pupil in the Dixon schools. When her Dad reached home he found the youngster on the floor, humped over the paper, looking at the fannies. Pretty soon she said "Say Dad, I want a pair of tennis shoes with those round spot on the sides." Dad said, "Well, I guess you can have a pair when it gets warm enough to wear them."

"But I want them now."

"Well now, why all the rush Honey? I don't know where I can get you a pair right this minute," said the old man, thinking he had settled that argument. But no such luck. The little lady came back with, "But I know where you can get them. It tells you right here in the paper. Look at this," and she dragged the paper over and forced father's attention to the advertisement of the shoes.

Of course father explained that the stores were closing up at that hour and all that sort of thing, but he knew he had lost the battle and agreed to take her down and get a pair in the morning.

That youngster was up at daylight and dressed and presented herself at her sleepy father's bedside at an unearthly hour in the morning and believe us, she had him down at that store by the time they were sweeping out and preparing to open for the day's business and she got her shoes.

All of which goes to prove that it pays to advertise and it pays to read the ads. We vouch for the truth of the story. By Heck, we ought to know. We had to pay for the shoes.

GROWING BETTER.

"By hickory," says Chauncey M. Depew, "there is no doubt about it! The world is growing better, and these calamity howlers and prophets of evil don't amount to a darn."

He says it on his 91st birthday anniversary, so it must be true. Men are commonly regarded as inspired at such times, and Mr. Depew has not only lived long but lived much and observed shrewdly.

"The future?" he continues. "Nothing could be brighter. You come back here nine years from now—when I'm 100 years old—and see if I haven't been right."

That is a reasonable proposition. It may be worth waiting nine years for a show-down on this matter. It would afford rare pleasure for a lot of dyed-in-the-wool pessimists to prove a champion optimist dead wrong on his 100th birthday anniversary. But they probably haven't much show. Chauncey has always been a winner—perhaps because he has always been cheerful.

A LINE OF BUREAUCRY.

To a citizen complaining of the government printing office rule that an order for a cheap government bulletin must be accompanied by "postal money order, express order or New York draft," instead of the simple expedient of enclosing five cents in postage stamps, the superintendent writes:

"I fully appreciate your point of view regarding this requirement but am sure you will realize that we could not advertise the fact that we would accept stamps, for the reason that we could be flooded with quantities that we could not use, and the postoffice department does not redeem them for us."

Which neatly begs the whole question. The question is, why the government printing office and the postoffice department do not get together on so simple a matter as this, and enable citizens to obtain public documents on which there is a charge of only a few cents by sending stamps for them, instead of going to the trouble and expense of getting "postal money order, express order, New York draft."

Here is a striking example of bureaucratic awkwardness, which inconveniences the public without really saving any trouble to the departments concerned. They could handle stamps as well as other forms of payment.

SALACITY.

Jesse Lasky says he believes that the public has become tired of sex and problem plays.

We think the public as a whole was tired of them after the first one.

Salacious literature, doubtful art and sex plays will always have their following.

But the average American prefers the clean and wholesome.

DISREPUTE.

A Logansport (Ind.) judge suspended a two to 14-year sentence of a youth of 17 on condition that he join the navy. He was rejected, so the judge ordered him to serve the sentence.

Sentencing men to join the navy is one sure way to bring disrepute upon the men who defend this country in time of war.

Of all the steps for the restoration of the post-war world the resumption of the gold standard by Britain, and the announcement that the major part of the civilized world is now on the standard is by all odds the most significant.

It took the United States 14 years to resume specie payment after the Civil War. Britain, and the world, have done it in just half that time, after the greatest of all wars. Even France accepts the challenge, and will doubtless now face the necessity of revaluing the franc, on something like its present basis of a little over five cents, as a preliminary to going on the gold basis.

Also this means more than gold. It means the old economic basis of the world. It means an international standard. It means that neither the political economic revolution of Russia nor the threatened monetary volition of Germany will transform the world. Two crises are past. The future is to grow by evolution; not to be made over by revolution. We shall be able to do business with each other and to deal politically with each other. One of the strongest ties of the unity of mankind is re-established.

They hanged "Tuffy" Reade in San Quentin the other day. "Tuffy" was a dope fiend, and a generally useless citizen. He murdered a man who, if "Tuffy" told the truth (which is far from certain), was not much better than he, but who at least had the right not to be murdered.

So they tried and convicted his murderer and held him in prison. Then the state, for the first time, began to

WOMAN'S BACK STOPPED ACHING

I Suffered Three Years. Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Paul, Minn.—"I have a little girl three years old and ever since her birth I have suffered with my back as if it were breaking in two and I had a bearing down feeling all the time. I also had dizzy spells and was sick at my stomach every month. I had read several letters from women in the newspapers and the drugist recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to my husband for me. As a result of taking it my back has stopped aching and the awful bearing-down feeling is gone. I feel stronger and do all of my housework and tend to my little girl. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills for constipation. I have recommended these medicines to some of my friends and you may use this letter as a testimonial if you wish. I will be pleased to answer letters of other women if I can help them by telling them what this medicine has done for me."

NO. 2—THE STORK'S STORY

It is fun to fish and catch frogs—

Nancy and Nick sat down and Doctor Bill sat down, and the Stork sat down—or rather he stood on one leg. "It's a long story," said he, "and it may sound conceited. I hope you don't mind."

"I have plenty of time, if you mean me," said Doctor Bill taking out his watch. "Most of my bird patients are about cured, and ready to go home. As far as I am concerned you may talk as long as you like."

Nancy and Nick pulled their chairs closer. "We dearly love a story," said they. "And if it is about you, it's sure to be interesting. We never saw a stork before, although we have a screen at home with your picture embroidered on it in silk."

"Thank you," said the stork with dignity. "Then I shall begin at the beginning."

"My real home is on a roof in a town in Holland. Vrou Van Stimpel, the Dutch lady upon whose house I live, has a box built for my wife and myself to make our nest in. It is filled with sticks and grass—the box is—and in the summer, with our young children growing up and our family about us, we are very happy."

"The fish-market is our boarding house. We get most of our meals there, as the fish-monger throws us all the heads and tails and parts of the fish he cannot sell. Besides the fish we eat almost anything that is given to us. Vrou Van Stimpel never has to pay two cents to a garbage man."

"To show our appreciation of all this kind attention, we keep the place cleared of rats and mice and bugs. Wherever you find storks, there you will find a clean city."

"But what do you do with the rats and mice?" interrupted Nick.

CHAPTER II

"Try Your Luck with Professor Challenger"

I always liked McArdle, the crabbed, old, round-backed, red-headed news editor, and I rather hoped that he liked me. Of course, Beaumont was the real boss, but he lived in the rarefied atmosphere of some Olympian height from which he could distinguish nothing smaller than an international crisis or a split in the Cabinet. Sometimes we saw him passing in lonely majesty to his inner sanctum, with his eyes staring vaguely and his mind hovering over the Balkans or the Persian Gulf. He was above and beyond us. But McArdle was his first lieutenant, and it was he that we knew. The old man nodded as I entered the room, and he pushed his spectacles far up on his bald forehead.

"Well, Mr. Malone, from all I hear, you seem to be doing very well," said he in his kindly Scotch accent.

I thanked him. "The colliery explosion was excellent. So was the Southwark fire. You have the true descriptive touch. What did you want to see me about?"

"To ask a favor."

He looked alarmed, and his eyes shunned mine. "Tut, tut! What is it?"

"Do you think, Sir, that you could possibly send me on some mission for the paper? I would do my best to put it through and get you some good copy."

"What sort of mission had you in your mind, Mr. Malone?"

"You seem very anxious to lose your life."

"Well, Sir, anything that had adventure and danger in it. I really would do my very best. The more difficult it was, the better it would suit me."

"You seem very anxious to lose your life."

"To justify my life, Sir."

"Dear me, Mr. Malone, this is very—very—excellent. I'm afraid the day for this sort of thing is rather past. The expense of the 'special mission' business hardly justifies the result, and, of course, in any case it would only be an experienced man with a name that would command public confidence who would get such an order. The big blank spaces in the map are all being filled in, and there's no room for romance anywhere. Wait a bit, though!" he added, with a sudden smile upon his face.

"Talking of the blank spaces of the map gives me an idea. What about exposing a fraud—a modern Manichaean—and making him ridiculous? You could show him up as the liar that he is! Eh, man, it would be fine. How does it appeal to you?"

"Anything—anywhere—I care nothing."

McArdle was plunged in thought for some minutes.

"I wonder whether you could get on friendly—or at least on talking terms with the fellow," he said at last. "You seem to have a sort of genius for establishing relations with people—sympathy, I suppose, or animal magnetism, or youthful vitality, or something. I am conscious of it myself."

"You are very good, Sir."

"So why should you not try your luck with Professor Challenger, of Enmore Park?"

I dare say I looked a little startled.

McTangle

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRES-COTT TO THE LITTLE MARQUISE, CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER, CONTINUED

I wonder if every girl who marries goes through the same mental experiences that have been mine. I wonder if she finds her world very different from that which she has imagined.

First, I found that love to Jack meant something entirely different than it does to me. To Jack, there are certain well-defined limits within which love must dwell and within whose limits the other things that compose his life may never come. Love, in turn, must never stray over into the realm of business or cultural interest, and not very far into the land of amusement. Truly love is of man's life a thing apart.

With me, love must be a part of everything in which I am concerned. All my life I have been taught this. All the books I have read, all the plays I have ever seen, every screen picture that has unfolded before me, told me that love must sweeten every task, must clear up every misunderstanding. It must be the solvent of every difficulty, the chemical which made all other things clear.

"Some day," I said to myself, "I shall know this love and then I shall know something so beautiful, so enthralling, that life will be one sweet dream."

I know now that I asked too much. But does not every girl ask the same when she stands at the altar and marries the man she loves?

I am still satisfied, however, that love is the only thing which sets the vibrations of life in tune. We do not understand it yet. We do not know we use it, and sometimes we bruise and hurt it until it dies.

The other day I had come to the conclusion that I was standing in love's light—that in my selfishness and self-centered attitude I was not making love the motive power of my existence. I determined to try out my theory again.

I sat down and wrote a letter to my husband. I sent it to his office in Pittsburgh.

If other women could write him letters, then why might not I? Ever since I sent that letter I have been trembling and wondering what he would do when he reads it. I am sure he has not received it yet, for he has said nothing about it.

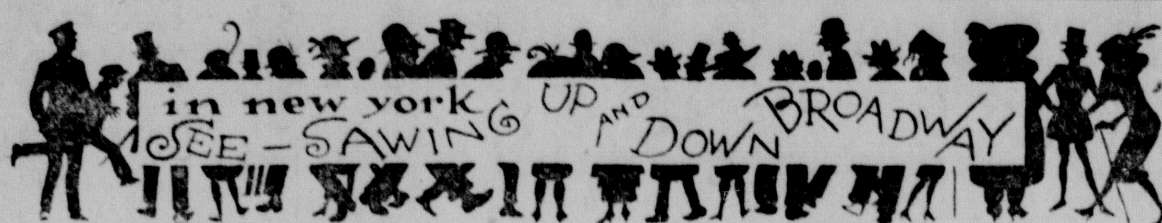

Lytic Marquise, I am going to write here what I wrote to my husband, and I hope that in some occult way you will make me understand whether I have done right to send him such a letter.

Isn't it strange that I, who have lived with a man four years and borne him children, doubt the propriety of sending him a letter trying to tell him what is in my heart? That this doubt is not the product of this modern day, I know, for I remember very well my grandmother singing an old song which went like this:

After life-long years together
After fair and stormy weather
After travel in far lands
After touch of wedded hands

New York—See-sawing up and down Broadway I saw Lillian Gish, pensive and wistful and charming in a plaid tan coat and a small tan hat pushed well down on her head. Oh, yes, George Jean Nathan, the critic, was along. Seeing many young ladies with their pikes pushed far back on their heads and deem it a very ugly mode, inasmuch as those who wear their bonnets that way have the look of Morons.

Saw Alfred Kreyenborg, poet and critic, and he impressed me with his austerity. Saw many editors here in convention and I would like all reporters to know what good sports their editors are when away from home. But all men are like that.

Saw Princess Maria Matchabell, a woman of vivid personality and vivid clothes. Saw Walter Catlett, the comedian, who says he is building a sunken garden for fallen women.

Saw Weber and Fields and find little to laugh at in their antics, albeit almost everyone else does.

Saw Elsie Janis and heard her sing the old "hinky dinky, parlez-vous" song and thought of many of the verses the fellows used to sing in camp which Elsie does not sing.

Saw Mr. John Pershing, commonly known as "Black Jack" Pershing. I believe the chief reason for him being a great soldier is that he looks like a great soldier.

Saw Benedict MacQuarrie, one of five brothers of San Francisco who all went on the stage. Benedict's great de luxe affairs with thick upholstery. They are enclosed in glass for foul weather and the most unusual feature is a glass top through which one may rubberneck at the skyscrapers without getting dirt in the eye.

Saw E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe, whose private romance is as sweet as anything they have played on the stage and whose lives disprove the common belief that all stage people are mutually unhappy.

Summer visitors will find here such sightseeing buses as they have never before ridden in. They are great de luxe affairs with thick upholstery. They are enclosed in glass for foul weather and the most unusual feature is a glass top through which one may rubberneck at the skyscrapers without getting dirt in the eye.

It has been set down here before that many of New York's hotels are cities complete within themselves. They are equipped to meet any emergency of the guest. An instance of that occurred during the publishers' convention. A Cleveland man suffered with a cinder in his eye. A clerk inquired as to what troubled him and called an attendant who escorted the guest to the hotel hospital. There the eye was treated without charge to the guest. It was explained that guests receive free treatment at the hotel for any injury sustained within the building—even though the management is not at fault.

Girl's Death Reveals

Her Marriage in April
Champaign, Ill., May 4.—Parents of Florence Elizabeth Feist, who was fatally injured when an airplane, in which she was riding with L. B. Wein, fell 290 feet Saturday on the Feist farm two miles south of Champaign, announced Monday that the girl, April 25, had been to Terre Haute, Ind., with Earl Wainwright of Champaign and been married there.

"They had kept it a secret and the family first learned of the wedding in going over the girl's effects after her death."

Funeral services for the girl were conducted this afternoon at the home. An inquest is to be held by Coroner Wm. Strode Wednesday evening.

Wein, severely injured by the wreck, is said to have a chance to recover. His wife and parents arrived from Madisonville, Ky., Sunday to be with him.

Do it today. Tomorrow might be too late. Insure that automobile. Hal will take care of it for you. He is on the job at the Dixon Loan and Building Assn from 8 to 6. Drop in anytime.

You can't fight the Devil with cream puffs

BILLY SUNDAY is called sensational. He is. He doesn't believe in fighting the devil with cream puffs. He gets audiences—and converts. TRUE STORY has been called sensational. It is. This magazine believes in fighting the devil with his own weapons—it gets readers and results.

Hundreds of thousands of people jam the biggest auditoriums in the United States to hear Billy Sunday. He doesn't believe the road to heaven is paved with soft words.

Yes, TRUE STORY is sensational—the Master Himself was sensational—when He turned to those who were about to stone a fallen woman, and said, "He that is without sin among you let him first cast a stone,"—when He advised the rich young man to sell all he possessed and give the proceeds to the poor—when He scourged the money changers and drove them from the Temple.

Perhaps you decry sensationalism and because TRUE STORY is sensational, you think "something ought to be done about it."

Then you have never read TRUE STORY with an unprejudiced mind.

If you read TRUE STORY with the thought of getting something uplifting out of it, something you can pass along to others, who perhaps need the lessons it teaches more than you—then you cannot be disappointed.

TRUE STORY is life's mirror. It will not change—unless truth changes. It will be tomorrow what it is today—the most frank, sincere and helpful magazine in America.

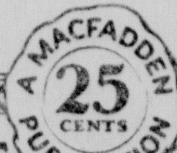

We have not known a single instance of any human being, young or old, that has been harmed by reading TRUE STORY. On the contrary thousands have told us that TRUE STORY has guided them through mazes of evil forces and evil influences, into the light of moral sanity and reason.

A ministerial board passes on every story submitted to this magazine. TRUE STORY is the only magazine that ever adopted this policy to protect the moral and spiritual welfare of its readers.

Indeed, TRUE STORY is such a great moral force that many ministers recommend it to the young people of their congregation and it goes into millions of homes and helps solve the problems of religious workers where the searchlight of truth is needed.

If to fight the devil with real weapons is sensational, then TRUE STORY is sensational—just as Billy Sunday is sensational.

TRUE STORY is truly the Billy Sunday among magazines.

Have you noticed the rapid increase in the number of motorists who use Michelin Tires? It's a wise age. Have you, too, learned to use Michelines? If not, give them a trial. They are now selling at the price of ordinary tires.

"61" FLOOR VARNISH

OLD-fashioned women know they can wash floors finished with "61" Floor Varnish with plenty of soap and water, and that no damage will result. Modern housewives can use a mop if the old-fashioned way is too strenuous! Try all of the water tests on "61" and know that it is waterproof. And "61" Floor Varnish, is just as wear-resistant as it is water-resistant, on furniture, woodwork and linoleum, as well as floors. The beautiful "61" colors stain and varnish in one operation, without streaks, laps or brush marks. Come in and get a color card.

Ride on GENUINE Low Air Pressure

If you can cut down the air pressure in your balloon tires it will add just that much more to their cushioning effect.

Maybe you can't do this safely with your present make of balloon tires.

But you can with the new U. S. "Royal low-pressure Balloons—

Because—

These tires have the new U. S. "Low-Pressure Tread." This tread gives a much greater area of road contact than a round tread.

It distributes the load evenly over the tread surface and reduces the weight on the individual tread blocks. This does away with early, uneven and disfiguring tread wear.

U. S. Royal Balloon gives long service even at lower air pressures than have been recommended in the past.

For in addition to this new Low-Pressure tread they are built of Latex-Treated Web Cord. The only cord construction in which the cords are webbed together with pure rubber latex. This gives maximum strength and maximum flexibility.

Don't compromise on balloon tire pressures any longer.

Ride on genuine low pressure.

It will surprise you to know what a difference it makes.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton © 1925 NEA SERVICE INC.

THE STORY SO FAR:

GLORIA GORDON, beautiful flapper, marries DICK GREGORY, a struggling lawyer. Her idea of marriage is fun and fine clothes . . . but no hard work or children!

Dick borrows his mother's maid, MAGGIE, to teach Gloria to cook. But she refuses to learn. She meets STANLEY WAYBURN, an actor with whom she once had been in love.

Gloria invites Wayburn to a housewarming. He comes, and Dick instantly suspects that Gloria is in love with him. Wayburn makes love all evening to MYRA GAIL.

The "wild" party breaks up when LOLA ROUGH "blows out" BILL, her husband, for putting MAY SEYMOUR, wife of DR. JOHN SEYMOUR, Maggie, disgusted, quits her job. Then Gloria hires RANGHILD SWANSON, although Dick tells her she cannot afford a housemaid. She also buys new clothes and insists upon an automobile. Gloria begins to be jealous of MISS BRIGGS, Dick's secretary.

One afternoon Dick returns home unexpectedly to find his wife entertaining Wayburn. May Seymour, and JIM CAREWE. Next morning May phones Gloria to tell her that the gossip about her love affair with Carewe has kept her out of the Home Woman's Club. She begs Gloria to ask MOTHER GREGORY, an officer of the club, to put her into it. Mother Gregory refuses.

Now go on with the story. Soon after May's useful telephone message, Mother Gregory got up to go. She wrapped herself in her black broadcloth and furs that always smelled of mothballs, and peeked Gloria on her cheek.

"Goodbye," she said severely. "And I hope that your friend, Mrs. Seymour, will be an example to you of what happens to foolish wives who go tramping around with men who wouldn't marry them if they had the chance. . . . Decent women simply won't have anything to do with

POLO VETERAN IN TRIBUTE TO LATE COMRADE

Many Attended Funeral of Solomon Grim at Church Friday

Polo—Solomon Clie Grim, one of Polo's oldest and most highly respected citizens, was born Oct. 1, 1834 at Hagerstown, Md., and at 6:20 Tuesday evening, April 28, he quietly fell asleep at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Winders. Mr. Grim had been in failing health for the past several years and on Friday morning he suffered a stroke from which he never regained consciousness. He has been tenderly cared for by his daughter and son-in-law, which has prolonged his life for many years. On May 30, 1861 he was united in marriage to Miss Anna V. Welty and to them four children were born, Mrs. Clara Winders and Fred Grim of Polo, William who preceded him in death two years ago and Cora who died in infancy. Mr. Grim was the last of a family of nine children, one brother passing away last September. He has left to mourn his passing besides his two children, three grandchildren, Mrs. Edna Grim of Iowa, Fred Winders of Milwaukee and Annabel Winders of Polo and five great grandchildren and many nieces and nephews besides a host of friends. Mr. Grim served his country during the war of '61 and enlisted in Co. D, 92nd regiment, Illinois, and was a member of the Polo post, G. A. R. who attended the funeral in a body. Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 2:30 from the Methodist church, Rev. Harry C. Brown officiating and with the G. A. R. in charge at the grave. He was laid at rest beside his wife who preceded him in death 12 years ago in the beautiful Fairmount cemetery. Roy Foutz of Milledgeville spent Thursday at the Samuel Landis home. Miss Annabelle Winders was called from DeKalb by the death of S. S. Grim.

Jacob Tobias and family of Chicago visited last week at the George Smith home.

Mrs. Frank Bellows entertained the W. R. C. Circle Wednesday afternoon.

AMUSEMENTS

DOES MARRIAGE MAKE A WOMAN LOSE HER CHARM?

Grace George Gives the Answer in Her Greatest Comedy Success, Coming to the Studebaker Theatre, Chicago.

The question that disturbs every woman, once the bloom of the honeymoon is rubbed off, is answered by Grace George, long recognized as the foremost comedienne on the American stage, in her latest comedy success, "She Had to Know," which comes to the Studebaker Theatre, Chicago, for an engagement beginning Monday, May 11th.

This play is the third from the pen of Paul Gerald that Miss George has brought to American playgoers, and it is in all respects the best. It comes to Chicago direct from nappy runs in both New York and Philadelphia, where it was greeted with an enthusiasm seldom accorded to any play. But there was a reason for the enthusiasm. There was a reason for its triumphs. And that was because for superb acting and for producing laughs it ranked second to none in comparison to any play of the season's output.

The reason for the laughs is that Gerald has taken up the aforementioned question of what happens when a wife feels she has lost those charms that once won her husband. Has the potency of her physical appeal diminished? Does her husband want her just as much as ever? These questions the wife puts to her husband in the play and he replies with—a yawn. Complications ensue, as might naturally be expected.

All right, then. If her husband replies to her with a yawn, and laughs at her for being childish, then she will see what effect her beauty has on other men. She tries first her husband's best friend; then a young philanderer; and then a verdant youth, her own cousin. And just when she is in the act of kissing the last-named her husband walks in.

Well, what happens then is better seen than told. Suffice it that there are plenty of laughs to please every body.

Others in the cast include the handsome Frederick Worlock, husband of Elsie Ferguson but distinguished theatrically in his own right, Charlotte Ives, H. Tyrrel Davis, Edmund H. Weaver, and Barbara Kitson.

Mail orders for this important engagement are now being received. Send stamped-addressed envelope with remittance to the Studebaker Theatre.

Good Thoughts for Good People

O give thanks unto the Lord; call upon his name; make known his deeds among the people. Sing unto him, sing psalms unto him; talk ye of all his wondrous works. Glory ye in his holy name: let the heart of them rejoice that seek the Lord.

A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance.

—Solomon.

There is a wide gulf between the merry heart—that which sings at work and delights in reflecting love to all around—and the unhappy heart, which gives forth only the hollow sound of its own sadness. The two are never to be mistaken. And the merry heart, because of its very goodness—goodness, that is, which has sprung from obedience to the law of Love,—will never be found un- wisely insincere, unseemly, but always considerate, courteous, kind. Its smile will never be that of vanity.

Fatal Race Riots Ended in California's Prison

San Quentin, Calif., May 4—Warden Smith of San Quentin prison announced that the so-called race riots which have resulted in the deaths of three and serious injury to several other prisoners recently, had been brought under control, although strict routine inaugurated last Thursday was still being enforced.

The principal sufferers in the disturbances are believed to have been of Mexican birth and this has drawn the attention of the Mexican consular office in San Francisco. In connection with this A. Lubbert, Mexican consul general, announced he was trying to determine whether Antonio Hernandez and Michael Gomez, two of the slain men, were born in Mexico. Mr. Lubbert said if this was found to be so he planned to report all facts to the Mexican embassy at Washington.

Gov. Richardson visited the prison yesterday and conferred with the warden.
